The 2019 AGRE Annual Summit is scheduled for Sunday, Sept 22 2019 from 9am-noon at the University of the Sciences in Philadelphia. The date is immediately before the RAPS annual meeting in Philadelphia. USP is located west of the Convention Center, site of the RAPS meeting. Two features are a) a panel discussion of competencies for a regulatory career and b) a discussion on survey results of academic regulatory programs.

Co-Chairs: James E. Polli (U of Maryland) and Laurence G. Poli (USciences)

Agenda

8:30-9:00am light breakfast

9:00-10:30 Panel Discussion: "An Alignment of Academic and Experiential Competencies for a Regulatory Career" (moderator: Laurence G. Poli, USciences)

The purpose of this panel is to stimulate thinking to incorporate additional industry regulatory considerations within the academic curriculum of the graduate level programs provided by AGRE member universities. This session will include introductory comments from panelists, moderator and panel Q&A, and audience participation. Panel members are: Tom Schultz (The Janssen Pharmaceutical Company), Lindsay Cobbs (UCB Pharmaceuticals), Melody Eble (The Janssen Pharmaceutical Company), and Danielle Ziernicki (The Dedham Group).

10:30-11:00 Break

11:00-noon Discussion on survey results of academic regulatory programs (moderator: Grace Gowda, U of Georgia)

The purpose of this panel is to review and discuss results from a recently published survey of academic regulatory programs. This session will include a 10 min presentation by Frances Richmond (USC) of survey results, followed by audience discussion.
